Ninety days to a spa that pays you first.

Memberships pay Lumevina's bills before the month even starts. Once they do, every facial, wax and product Evelyn sells is hers. This is the road there, and what comes after.

The road

Six steps. The first three start this month

Weeks 1–3 NOW

Launch

Live payments on, booking moves to Lumevina, an early list of 15 names.

Days 1–90 NOW

Members

The offer after every facial, and new clients from Google, reviews and referrals.

Alongside NOW

Talent

A list of 15 lash, brow and nail artists. Coffee with three, pick two.

Months 4–12

Artists

Two artists try Lumevina free for 90 days. Members save 10% with them.

Year 1

The network

Go or no-go: their clients start booking Evelyn, or not.

Year 2

The house

The Lumevina Collective: a shared space and 6 to 8 artists.

The milestones

Members, and what each number unlocks

5 members

Week 5

The Founding Five

The first members, each with a free kit and next month already booked.

15 members

Week 10

Lumevina pays for itself

Dues cover every business bill before the month starts. Everything else she books is hers.

20 members

Day 90

The day-90 goal

Room for a cancellation or a slow month, and the signal to offer two artists the pilot.

50 members

Month 6

Dues pay Evelyn too

About $4,990 a month left from dues after the bills, before the month's first facial.

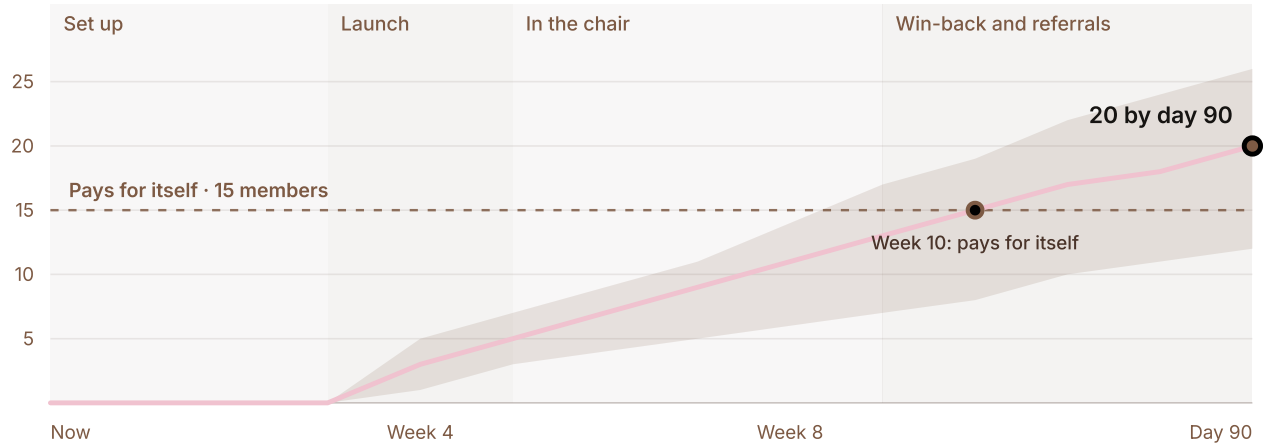

Pages 2 to 5 are the plan: thirteen weeks, new clients, talent, and after day 90. The appendix, pages 6 to 10, has the numbers behind it for Ruben and the accountant.

How to get there

Thirteen weeks. One offer at a time.

Members, week by week

Line: the plan. Shaded: slow to strong. Dashed: 15 members, where Lumevina pays for itself.

Week by week

Members by the end of each stretch · the plan

Week 1	Count what's there: facial clients from the last six months, visits a month, who already comes every four to eight weeks. Set up the Saturday scoreboard.	—
Weeks 2–3	Live payments on, booking moves to Lumevina. In the chair, Evelyn mentions it: membership opens soon, first five get a free kit. Build an early list of 15 names.	—
Week 4	Launch. The early list hears a day first, then a text and email to every client and an Instagram post. The Founding Five opens.	3
Week 5	The Founding Five fills. Kits handed over in person, and each founder's next facial booked before she leaves.	5
Weeks 6–9	The offer after every facial, next month booked on the spot. About 45 facial visits a month; one in eight says yes.	13
Weeks 10–13	Win-back texts to clients not seen in 60 days, with the member price as the reason to return. Members refer a friend: $15 off for them, 150 Glow Points for the member.	20

The offer, in the chair · two minutes at the end of every facial

"Your skin renews about every four weeks. As a member it's $159 a month instead of $195 a visit, and I'll hold your spot for next month. Want me to book it now?"

Book it before she leaves. A facial on the calendar is a member who stays.

New clients

Two new faces a week. The next members.

Evelyn’s regulars start the membership. New clients keep it growing, and cover the ones who move or cancel. Six ways in, each cheap, each counted on the Saturday scoreboard.

Google, first

Claim the Google Business Profile: hours, photos, and a Book button straight to Lumevina. Most “facial near me” searches end there.

25 reviews by day 90

A text with the review link the day after every facial. Reviews are what get a stranger to book.

Referrals that pay

Every client has a code: the friend gets $15 off a first visit, and the client gets 150 Glow Points ($15) when it’s done. Members hear it at every visit.

One result a week

A before-and-after, with permission, on Instagram and the Google profile, with the New Client price on it.

Gift certificates

Every certificate puts someone new in the chair. Push them before Valentine’s, Mother’s Day and the holidays.

Neighbors

Chair cards with a first-visit offer at a nearby salon, gym, yoga studio or bridal shop, and send clients their way too.

New client, new member A new client hears about the membership at her first visit and gets the offer at her second, once she’s seen her skin change. That’s when she says yes.

Where the 20 come from

The plan, by day 90

Founding Five launch Early list, text, email, Instagram	5
In the chair, after every facial About 1 in 8 of the facial clients offered	7
Win-back texts Clients not seen in 60+ days	4
New clients Google, reviews, gift certificates, neighbors	2
Member referrals $15 off for the friend; 150 Glow Points when their first visit is done	2
By day 90	20

If week 7 ends under 7 members

Pull these levers, in this order

Personal invites

Evelyn texts her 20 most loyal clients herself. Nothing converts like her.

A member week

Anyone who joins that week gets a free LED add-on. It costs time, not product.

Double referrals

Members who bring a friend that week get 300 Glow Points instead of 150.

Don’t

Cut the dues or reopen the Founding Five. It teaches clients to wait for a deal.

Talent, alongside

Scout now. Sign at day 90.

Both run from day one. The talent search is about two hours a week, mostly Ruben, and never takes Evelyn out of the treatment room. Nothing gets signed until the members are there to offer.

Weeks 1–4

Build the list

Ask every client who does their lashes, brows and nails. Save the name, the Instagram, and how many clients mentioned her. Goal: 15 names.

Weeks 5–8

Get to know them

Follow and book the top five as a client. Coffee with three: their business, not a deal yet. The one-hour attorney consult on pilot terms.

Weeks 9–13

Pick two

The two whose clients overlap most with Evelyn's. The one-page pilot offer drafted and ready for day 90.

The day-90 gate

One number decides the next step

Day 90 · 15 or more members

Sign two artists

Offer the pilot to your best two in months 4–5, live by month 6.

- Free for 90 days, then 12% on bookings through Lumevina
- Members save 10% with them, and Lumevina pays it
- Their clients earn Glow Points to spend with them or with Evelyn

Day 90 · under 15 members

Keep talking

Sign nothing yet. The list stays warm while members catch up.

- Thirty more days of the member push
- Use the levers: personal invites, a member week
- Check again at day 120

Why members first An artist signs for clients. Twenty members who save 10% with her are twenty reasons to say yes, and they're the pitch at every coffee.

The Saturday scoreboard

Five numbers, every week. The dashboard counts most of them.

Members	New clients	Say-yes rate	Cancellations	Talent list
Against the plan: 20 by day 90	Two a week by week 6	Offered at every facial; 1 in 8 or better	Fewer than 1 in 20 a month	15 names by week 4

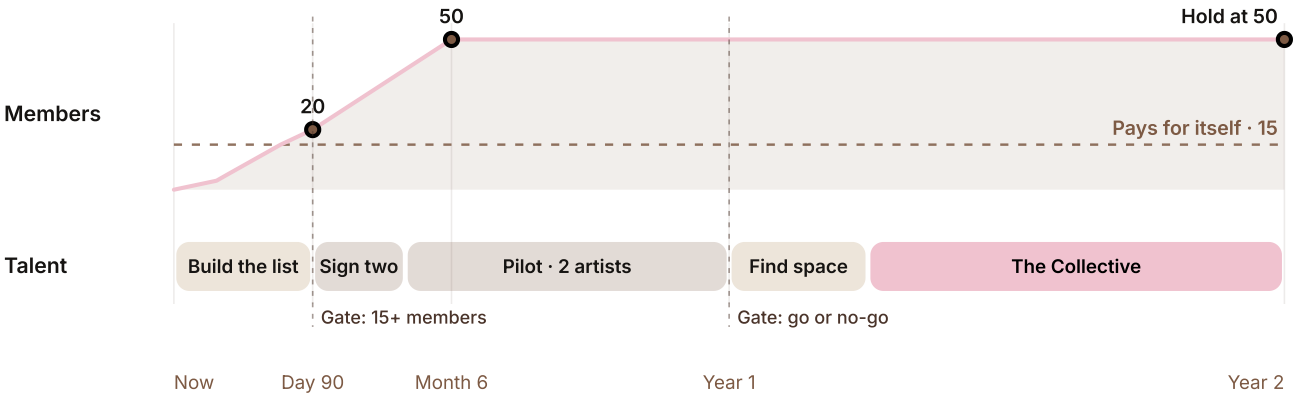

After day 90

Two engines. Both keep running.

Members keep coming from the chair and from referrals. Artists add a second income on top. Each gate is a number, so every step is earned by the one before it.

The next two years

Members above; the talent track below. Dashed lines are the gates.

Engine 1 · Members

The chair, new clients, referrals

Months 4–6	About ten new members a month	50 members
Month 6	Dues about $8,320 a month, with this much left for Evelyn's pay	+$4,990
Year 1	Hold at 50: new members replace any who leave	50 members
Room check	50 members is about 12 facials a week	¼ of open hours

Engine 2 · Talent

Matches the Growth Blueprint's pipeline

Months 4–5	Sign the two pilot artists, if day 90 passed	2 artists
Month 6	The pilot goes live, free for 90 days, then 12%	Pilot live
Month 12	Go or no-go: 15% of their clients book Evelyn	The gate
Year 2	The Collective: lease signed, pilot artists pick first	6–8 artists

Three ways to run it Facials can lead, product can lead, or it runs 50/50, at the same pay for Evelyn. Appendix pages 7 to 10 show each one, and when to flip.

Paying for itself by day ninety. Then it grows.

All figures are estimates from current menu prices and assumed costs. Replace the bills with Evelyn's real statements before deciding. A companion to the Lumevina Growth Blueprint. Not financial or legal advice.

Why fifteen. Dues pay the business.

For Ruben and the accountant. Dues arrive first; past the bills, the rest is profit.

The business's monthly bills

Spa costs only. Home, car and food come from her pay

Room · suite rent and utilities	$1,400
Insurance and license	$65
Website and app care	$200
Hosting, database, texts, domain and email	$65
Marketing · Instagram and chair cards	$160
Bookkeeping and tax prep, spread monthly	$50
Laundry and small supplies	$60
Every month	$2,000

What each member leaves

Per member, per month

Average dues · the plan mix Most on Glow $159 · about 1 in 7 on Ageless $209	$166
Card fee 2.9% + 30¢	−$5.13
Supplies for the monthly facial Backbar product used in the treatment	−$16
Member perks 10% off the shelf and 15% off add-ons, averaged	−$5.50
Each member leaves	$140

$2,000 ÷ $140 = 15 members

What each step up the ladder leaves

Dues only. What's left after the business's bills is what Evelyn pays herself from

Members	Dues kept	Left for her pay
5	$699	−$1,301
15 pays for itself	$2,098	+$98
20 day-90 goal	$2,797	+$797
30	$4,196	+$2,196
40	$5,595	+$3,595
50	$6,994	+$4,994

One-time launch costs

About $705, paid back from dues above the business's bills by month 5

Founding Five kits · $160
5 × cleanser + SPF at cost

Attorney consult · about $480
Pilot terms, month 2

Chair cards · $65
A member card for the treatment room

Paying Evelyn too

Members for dues alone to cover the business and her monthly pay, before taxes. Her regular bookings pay her too

$3,000 a month · 36 members
Business bills and pay: $5,000

$4,000 a month · 43 members
Business bills and pay: $6,000

$5,000 a month · 51 members
Business bills and pay: $7,000

Why it's growth, not moved money: a regular who came every seven weeks spent about $121 a month. As a Glow member she spends $159, comes every month, and pays first.

Flip the lead. Keep the pay.

$4,000 a month for Evelyn, after the bills, three ways. The web version has the switch.

Facials lead

About 80% of sales from facials

Facials 79% Product 21%

7	21	9
facials a week	subscribers	hours in the chair

In the chair
The Glow Membership at every facial; the routine as a take-home.

On the site
Leads with facials and the membership. The Glow Routine sits in the shop.

Evelyn's week
Facial slots open Tuesday to Saturday.

50/50

Half from facials, half from product

Facials 50% Product 50%

6	62	7
facials a week	subscribers	hours in the chair

In the chair
Every facial ends with both: the membership or the routine, whichever fits.

On the site
The membership and the Glow Routine side by side.

Evelyn's week
Four chair days, one day for boxes, check-ins and posts.

Product leads

About 70% of sales from product

Facials 30% Product 70%

4	101	5
facials a week	subscribers	hours in the chair

In the chair
Facials become the premium spot: 12 member spots and a waitlist. Every facial starts a routine.

On the site
Leads with the Glow Routine. Facials shown as limited.

Evelyn's week
Two or three chair days. The rest for video check-ins, posts and packing.

The honest read At the same pay, product leading frees about 4 hours a week in the chair but needs about 80 more subscribers. It pays off once Evelyn's facial hours are full, or when she wants them back, not before.

When to flip

The numbers decide, not the mood of one month

Toward product

Product sales beat facial sales two months running, the facial book has a waitlist, or Evelyn wants fewer chair hours.

Toward facials

Routine cancellations run over 1 in 10 a month, product keeps less than $40 of every $100, or facial demand outgrows the open slots.

One step at a time

Go through 50/50 first and hold it a month. Members keep their plans and subscribers keep their boxes either way.

The flip, in a week

Five things change; nothing is lost

The numbers

Bookkeeping's Coming in shows the split: services and dues against retail.

The site

Swap which offer leads: the top of the page, the nudge card, the shop.

The chair

Change the offer at the end of each facial.

Stock

Raise or lower reorder levels on the dashboard.

Evelyn's week

Open or close facial slots in the booking calendar.

Pick the pay. Slide the mix.

Facials a week and Glow Routine subscribers for each goal. The web version has the sliders.

Evelyn's pay	All facials	80 / 20	50 / 50	20 / 80	All product
$3,000	7 a week	6 a week 17 subs	5 a week 52 subs	2 a week 105 subs	162 subs
$4,000	8 a week	7 a week 21 subs	6 a week 62 subs	3 a week 126 subs	194 subs
$6,000	11 a week	10 a week 27 subs	7 a week 83 subs	4 a week 168 subs	258 subs
$8,000	14 a week	12 a week 34 subs	9 a week 103 subs	5 a week 210 subs	323 subs
$12,000	19 a week	17 a week 48 subs	13 a week 144 subs	7 a week 294 subs	452 subs
$16,000	25 a week	22 a week 61 subs	17 a week 185 subs	9 a week 378 subs	581 subs
$20,000	30 a week over the chair	27 a week 75 subs	21 a week 226 subs	11 a week 462 subs	710 subs

One chair has a ceiling

About 30 facials a week is the most one person can do well. All facials, that tops out near $19,900 a month for Evelyn, and every extra dollar costs more of her hours.

Subscribers don't

A box ships the same to Woodland Hills or Sacramento. Across California, and later the country, the only limit is packing, and that can be handed off.

So the mix is the lever

Facials earn the most per hour and build trust; product scales without her hands. Past the chair's ceiling, product and artists are the only ways up.

A premium price

At 50 / 50 and $4,000 a month for Evelyn. What clients pay more for, once the app is on the App Store

Premium price	Facial, average	Glow Routine	Facials a week	Subscribers	Added at the same volume
Today	$190	$75	6	62	—
+10%	$209	$82	5	54	+$900 a month
+20%	$228	$90	4	48	+$1,800 a month
+30%	$247	$98	4	43	+$2,700 a month

The app, on the App Store

Book in one tap, flash openings first, the magic mirror, the routine and the next box, all on her phone.

First in line

Members book first, get the waitlist first, and hear about openings 48 hours early.

Evelyn, personally

She picks every routine, answers questions the same day, and does a video skin check each quarter.

Raise it well

Tie it to the app's launch, give 30 days' notice, and keep founding members at their price.

Paid for. Still owed.

Members can bank a month's facial. The dues are in, but the facial comes back later, and in a busy month it can take a day that's normally off.

Facials owed at any time

Worth, in dues already collected, and the days of work to clear them (6 facials a day)

Members	10% bank a month	20% bank a month	30% bank a month
10	2 owed $390, 1 day	4 owed $780, 1 day	6 owed $1,170, 1 day
20 · day 90	4 owed $780, 1 day	8 owed $1,560, 2 days	12 owed $2,340, 2 days
30	6 owed $1,170, 1 day	12 owed $2,340, 2 days	18 owed $3,510, 3 days
50	10 owed $1,950, 2 days	20 owed $3,900, 4 days	30 owed $5,850, 5 days

Working a day that's normally off

Banked facials take the extra slots first; the rest are new bookings, 80% full

With 20 members, 15% banking	Extra slots a month	For banked facials	Open for new bookings	Added a month	Backlog cleared in
No extra days	—	—	—	—	waits for open slots
A Monday every other week	about 13	about 3	about 10	+$1,350	about 2 weeks
A Monday every week	about 26	about 3	about 23	+$3,090	about 1 week

To make more Open a Monday every other week: about 13 more slots a month. After the banked facials, about 10 are new bookings, roughly +$1,350 a month, or about $16,000 a year, for about 2 extra days of work a month.

Money held, not earned

Dues come in when they're paid, but a banked facial is still owed. The dashboard's Facials owed tile tracks them, so the books never mistake held money for spare money.

They come back in busy months

Holidays, weddings and summer are when members cash in. Two banked facials per member is the most that builds up: at two, billing holds until one is booked. So 20 members can owe about 40 at the very most.

Open a day off when it builds

When facials owed pass about 10, two days of work, open a Monday every other week until they're cleared. The open slots after that are new money.

Five facials. The shelf does the rest.

About five facials a week, and a monthly product subscription that takes none of Evelyn's hours.

The chair · 5 facials a week

Facials still pay the bills, with some left over

Facials a month 5 a week, Tuesday to Saturday	about 22
Sales At about $190 a visit	$4,120
Kept after supplies and card fees About $88 of every $100	$3,640
Business bills The same bills as page 2	−$2,000
Left for Evelyn's pay	$1,640

What each Glow Routine subscriber leaves

Per subscriber, per month

Glow Routine, a month The Glow tier. Clear is $85 and Ageless $95, so these figures are the floor	$75
Product cost Wholesale is usually about half the price	−$37.50
Card fee 2.9% + 30¢	−$2.48
Shipping and packaging Averaged: many pick up at a visit	−$4
Each subscriber leaves	$31

The trade $100 of facials keeps about $88; $100 of product keeps about $41. A member keeps about $140 and takes an hour; a subscriber keeps about $31 and takes none. About 4.5 subscribers earn what one member does.

Subscribers needed

Glow Routine at $75 a month, with five facials a week

Pay Evelyn $3,000 a month · 44 subscribers

Facials plus subscribers

Pay Evelyn $4,000 a month · 76 subscribers

Facials plus subscribers

Outsell the facials · 55 subscribers

More product sales than facial sales

Out-earn the facials · 118 subscribers

More kept from product than from facials

How to run it

If this becomes the plan

Cap the facial spots

12 facial memberships with a waitlist. Her time is the scarce thing, so facials can price up again.

Every facial ends with a routine

The chair is where subscribers start: five facials a week become new routines.

The Glow Routine, from $75

Glow, Clear or Ageless at $75, $85 or $95: Evelyn's pick of refills and a daily skin supplement, a seasonal update, a 15-minute video check-in each quarter, 10% off facials.

Start without inventory

A practitioner dispensary ships supplements for you at a lower margin. Buy the steady sellers wholesale once they prove out.

Check before selling supplements

Seller's permit and sales tax, insurance that covers products, the brand's own wording, and a doctor's OK in pregnancy or on medication.

Expect more cancelling

Plan for about 1 in 10 subscribers a month until real numbers arrive, so the chair and the site keep bringing new ones.

At five facials a week, a part-time or shared room could cut the biggest bill. Every $140 less a month is one fewer member, or about five fewer subscribers.